Christchurch is an attractive town set on the edge of the Bournemouth conurbation, with its own distinctive character. The town centre, with its priory and riverbank setting is probably familiar to many of the visitors who come to the town. However, the town does have a large thriving business base with over 1,200 companies.

Communications

The town is located close to Bournemouth with easy access to the A338 to the north. The town has a railway station and is in close proximity to Bournemouth Airport.

Education

Christchurch School Pyramid: 2 Infant Schools, 2 Junior Schools, 5 Primary Schools, 3 Secondary Schools. Secondary Schools for the town are Grange School (642 pupils) Twynham

School (1,591 pupils) Highcliffe School

Commercial Land

(1,425 pupils) - all 2011

Between 1994-10, 18.1 hectares of industrial land has been developed in Christchurch. The total area of land with permission or allocated in the local plan is 82.9 hectares. (March '10). Most of the industrial development for Christchurch (and north Bournemouth) will take place at Bournemouth Airport, where 72 hectares of land are available.

The historic County Town of Dorchester was the Durnovara of the Romans (who founded it in 70AD) and the fictional Casterbridge of Thomas Hardy's novels. The town has a busy shopping centre and flourishing market. It has long been recognised as the administrative centre of the County. There is a variety of Local Authority and commercial estates catering for light industry and high growth of Dorchester are closely tied in with the further development of the Prince of Wales inspired mixed housing and light industrial development at Poundbury, on the western fringe of the town.

Communications

Dorchester lies at the junction of the A35, South Coast trunk road, and the A37 to Yeovil and the north. It also has direct rail links to London and Bristol.

Lyme Regis is the most westerly tow in Dorset. It is a small coastal resort set in a coombe beside a wide bay. With a population of some 3,600 Lyme's existence depended upon The Cobb; a small, artificial harbour that dates from the time of Edward I who gave Lyme it's 'Regis' and its first charter in 1284. The character of Lyme Regis is late Georgian. Its' central streets are full of charming buildings including several from the late eighteenth century. The modest esplanade and The Cobb are at the heart of the town's holidar attractions - bathing, sailing and sea-fishing are all enjoyed here.

Communications

Portland extends south from the main Dorset coast beyond Weymouth. It is attached to the mainland by a narrow stretch of the famous Chesil Beach. This 'Limestone Isle' has a quality all of its' own enhanced by its' vast stone quarries rows of terraced stone houses and its' two castles. It has no real town centre, although Easton on the hill top and Fortuneswell on the norther slopes both have urban appearances Portland is now the home of the National Sailing Academy, and the venue of the sailing events for the

An ancient and historic market town Wimborne is the main centre for the District of East Dorset. Its history can be traced back to 300BC but it was in King Alfred's time that Wimborne was established as a town of importance. The very beautiful Minster dates from the early 10thC, but much of the structure was built in the 13thC. In the Minster is the famous chain library and close by the Priest House, now a museum. The town's commercial importance is based on its industrial

Research and Information

The Research and Information Group are a team of specialist researchers who provide a broad statistical service to the whole of the county council, its partner organisations, local business and the wider public.

With growing demands for local services to be provided with increased efficiency and effectiveness, the need for high quality, timely information and research to support decision making has never been greater.

The requirement to provide an evidence base for policy development, and the need to measure improvement and success, demands that data and information should be more widely used.

Research specialisms in the group include demography, the Dorset economy, the environment, public health, deprivation and rural facilities. With this combination of skills, together with a wide range of datasets, we may be able to answer some of your queries and help solve some of your problems!

Publications include:

- Dorset Data Book
- 'Research Matters' bulletins
- The LowDown economic bulletin
- Profile Leaflets
- Rural Services Survey 2009

Datasets include:

- The 2001 Census
- CACI Income Datasets
- Rural Services Data
- Various Benefit Datasets
- Annual Survey of Hours & Earnings
- Shopping Centre Data
- Index of Deprivation, 2010
- ONS Mid Year Population Estimates
