

Mr. J. Deyson

Dear Mr. James,

I personally think you should tell the independent planning inspector to go back to the original plan & stick to that. The original plan not being sound may result in no development at all.

This particular site south of Elm Close should have been developed at the same time as the above when access was not a problem, I don't know how you think traffic for a building site is going to move back & forward down Elm Close as the road was not designed for such traffic.

A figure of 40 houses has been mentioned which to my mind means 60 to 80 extra cars will be using Elm Close.

Finally I believe people in the planning dept are ruining small towns like Sturminster Newton, there is no real work in Sturminster Newton, access to the town itself is not great for a town of the size you are turning it into & take away the estate agents & charity shops & there is not a lot left and we don't have the infrastructure for more development.

Yours Sincerely
